

Yanneck Philipsen

Yanneck Philipsen, born in 1994, studied law at Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich, specializing in medical and healthcare law. After passing the First State Examination, he deepened his practical expertise in the legal department of a healthcare company, where he also served as a data protection officer. His responsibilities included legal advisory services in the fields of healthcare, medical, corporate, and data protection law, as well as the drafting and review of contracts.

Yanneck completed his legal traineeship at the Higher Regional Court of Munich. During this time, he gained valuable experience at a boutique law firm specializing in medical and healthcare law in Munich and at an international commercial law firm in Buenos Aires, Argentina. In May 2024, he passed the Second State Examination.

Since August 2024, Yanneck has been a member of the pharmaceutical law team at Meisterernst Rechtsanwälte. He advises national and international companies on regulatory matters in pharmaceutical and medical device law, including reimbursement law, data protection law, and general competition law in the pharmaceutical industry. Additionally, he provides comprehensive support to clients on compliance matters.

Yanneck advises in German and English.
